What's your biggest online marketing challenge?

What is remarketing?

A strategy where you create targeted adverts for those who have previously visited your website. These adverts follow them as they surf online.

How remarketing works

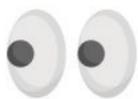

Potential client visits/interacts with your website

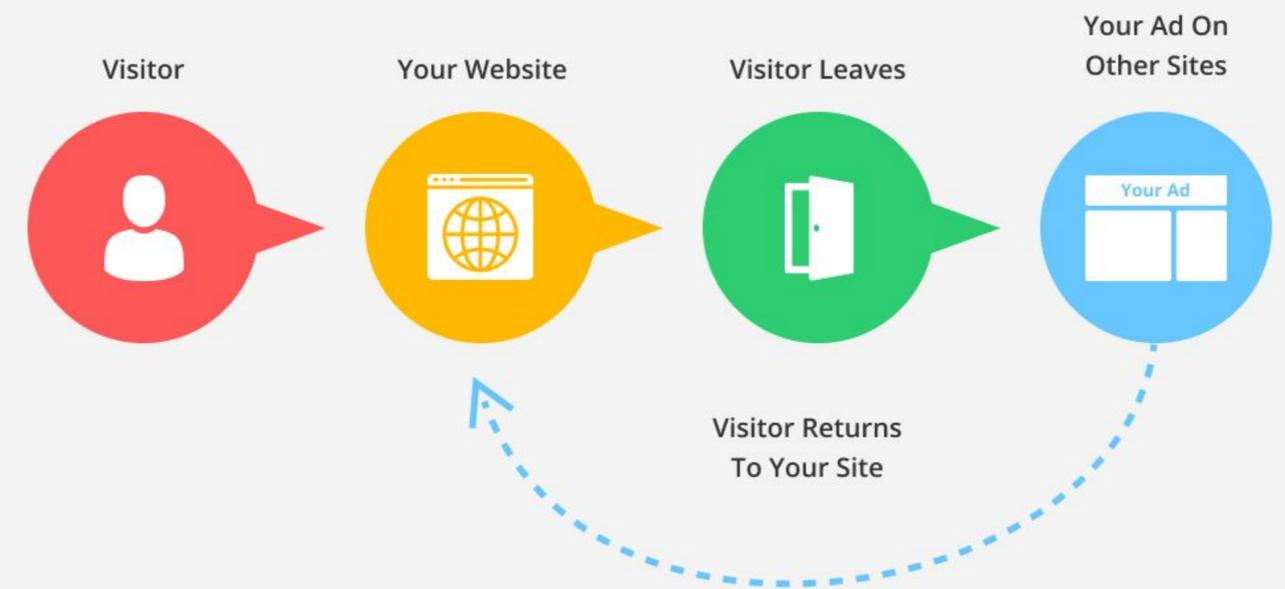

They are tagged with a cookie before they leave

The cookie triggers your adverts to follow them online

Your previous site visitor sees personalised adverts

Benefits of remarketing

- Recapture your audience
- Convert with personalised adverts
- Boost brand awareness
- Save your agency/brokerage money
- Engage with different adverts and platforms

Remarketing for Google ads

Let's answer those questions

Setup Walkthrough - Google Display Network remarketing campaign

You'll need to set up a remarketing list on Google Ads. This is a collection of website visitors gathered by snippets of code added to your site or app. When you create a list, you set rules for when visitors or users should be added to the list. You will also need to add a snippet of code from Google Ads, called a remarketing tag, to your site.

- Next, login and click on Campaigns in the Google Ads page menu.
- Click the plus button to create a new campaign.
- Choose your desired goal. This can be lead generation, brand awareness, driving website traffic - it all depends on your needs.
- Select "Display Network" as your campaign type.
- Set your campaign parameters.
 - Type in your campaign name.
 - Choose your location and language settings.
 - Add your bid strategy and budget.
- Next, look for "Audiences" in the "People" section.
- Click Remarketing.
- Click the checkbox next to the audiences you'd like to add. This will add them to your targeting.
- Click Save.

Setup Walkthrough - Google Search Network remarketing campaign

To create a Google Search Network remarketing campaign, you'll follow similar steps to the Google Display Network remarketing campaign.

- Add tags to your site for remarketing.
- After this, you can use the automatically created remarketing lists in your Audience Manager.
- To apply your lists, log in to the Google Ads page menu.
- Create a new "Search" campaign, or select an existing search campaign or ad group.
- Click "Audiences" on the page menu.
- Click the pencil icon to add an audience list.
- Under "Add to" section, select Campaign or Ad group, depending on which level you want to add your targeting.
- Click Select a campaign (or Select an ad group), then choose the campaign or ad group that you want to target.
- Under "How they interacted with your business" section, click the "Website visitors" drop-down menu.
- Select the checkboxes next to each remarketing list you want to add. Your audiences will appear in the "Selected audiences" column.
- Click Save.

Setup Walkthrough - Facebook/Instagram ads remarketing campaign

Now you know about the types of adverts you can use and where can they appear. Let's create a dynamic advert for a Facebook and Instagram ad remarketing campaign.

- You will need to have added a Facebook pixel on your website, and use standard events to report which product IDs from your catalog are being viewed, added to cart and purchased. A website developer can assist with this.
- Catalog: You need a catalog to use dynamic ads. You can create this in your Catalog Manager.
- In your Ads Manager, start creating your dynamic ad. Create a new campaign and choose your marketing objective.
- When selecting your audience, choose Retarget Ads to people who have interacted with your products on and off Facebook.
- Enter the number of days where the action occurred for your retargeting option.

Thank you.
