

Time to Move on From Oracle Discoverer

Stuck in a dead end with Oracle Discoverer? Discover powerful, fully supported Oracle reporting with Oracle Application Express.

Service Brief

Is it Time to Replace Oracle Discoverer?

Yes, it is.

Extended support for Oracle Discoverer ended in June 2017. Enterprises using this once premier reporting software are in hazardous territory. Without further upgrades or support, Discoverer can become prey to bugs, end up incompatible with web browsers, and even worse, represent an all-out security risk for the company running it.

An Oracle-Supported Replacement

There is a cost-effective and fully supported alternative to Discoverer you can migrate to immediately. Oracle Application Express (APEX) is the perfect framework for organizations needing a flexible, fully supported reporting solution, for years to come.

APEX comes standard with the Oracle database and is already covered under your licensing program. You are free to create as many reports as you need. And, because APEX is a no-cost option of the Oracle database, it provides powerful interactive reporting while integrating perfectly with Oracle's suite of business applications.

For organizations using Oracle E-Business Suite (EBS), data security and function security are handled using Insum's embedded Handshake for EBS integration tool.
