Grow Beautifully

2021

Featured Plants Guide

At Monrovia, we are passionate about plants and care deeply about our customers and industry. The last four months have been tumultuous, difficult, and draining, but our industry has remained strong and resilient.

The Garden Center business landscape and outlook has changed considerably from March, where retail curbside pickup was the only way in some areas to remain open. As we hit summer and take a breath with Zoom meetings and virtual shows, we look to the future and prepare for the new way of retailing at a distance. Monrovia's commitment to providing you with the very best plants, selection, and service has not changed.

Retailing has also changed. Online shopping is more important than ever. Plantt™ is an eCommerce storefront solution developed specially for garden centers to reach more consumers, and it is now available to you from us. If you need an easy, robust eCommerce solution, I invite you to look at the Plantt™ platform.

Gardening and landscaping have experienced resurged interest during this time of social distancing and working from home. Millions of households are spending more time in their yards.

Our 2021 Featured Plants are varieties that meet key consumer needs and are versatile plants sure to remain popular for years to come. They represent the best and most beautiful plants we grow. From dwarf flowering shrubs to evergreen hedges to long-blooming perennials, our Featured Plants continue to fulfill the promise consumers have come to trust: We provide plants that beautify their gardens and landscapes and thrive once planted.

To give you one place to gather the needed information on the above topics all in one location please visit the following web page: <http://go.monrovia.com/2021-featured-plants-information>

We thank you for your business in this spring and look forward to supporting your success to Grow Beautifully the remainder of this year and into 2021.

Stay Safe and Grow Beautifully,

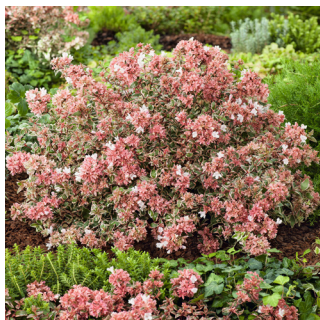

—Jonathan Pedersen
Vice President of Sales and Business Development

A lush garden scene featuring a large, dense green bush in the foreground. To the right, a smaller bush with dark, serrated leaves and clusters of small white flowers is visible. In the background, a statue of a person is partially obscured by the foliage. The overall scene is vibrant and well-maintained.

How Featured Plants Meet Consumer Needs

There are several features that are important to consumers when they are selecting plants to beautify their gardens and landscapes. We keep these qualities in mind when selecting and introducing our Featured Plants. These qualities include:

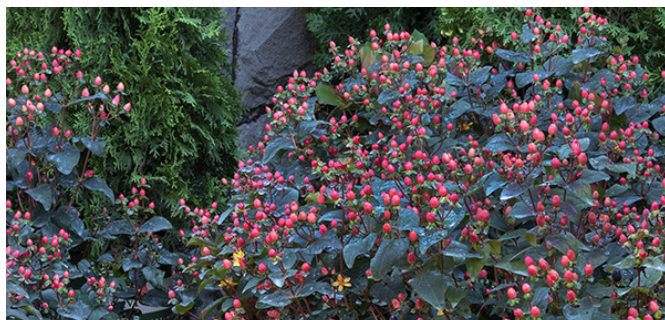

Flourishing in a wide range of environmental conditions. Consumers want beautiful, carefree plants that thrive in their landscapes. Consumers look for features such as drought tolerance, cold hardiness, and heat tolerance to give them confidence their plants will flourish.

Attracting wildlife. Providing for pollinators has become a point of passion for many consumers. They want more varieties that support beneficial wildlife.

Resisting pests. Consumers feel robbed when deer or rabbits browse their landscapes. We watch for plants that have increased resistance to these animals, as well as insects and diseases.

Blooming more. Consumers want more beauty from their gardens. They look for plants that rebloom, have an extended flowering period, or produce more/larger blossoms.

Fitting their spaces. From containers and small urban landscapes to large suburban gardens, consumers have a variety of spaces to fill with plants. That's why you will find Featured Plants from dwarf flowering shrubs to large evergreens that work as privacy screens.
