BigTime helps you build a best of breed ecosystem that evolves with you. With Customer Relationship Management, Professional Services Automation, and Accounting seamlessly integrated, you can manage your business in real-time and get work done faster.

Customer Relationship Management (CRM) tools support interactions with customers and prospects

Professional Services Automation (PSA) tools streamline time tracking, billing and invoicing, and project and task management

Accounting systems process transactions and organize financial information

Salesforce provides a customer relationship management solution alongside a complementary suite of enterprise applications for customer service, marketing automation, analytics, etc. Our integration with Salesforce allows the two systems to communicate and share relevant project and client details such as budgets, invoices, and team members. Armed with all the information they need, teams are able to work more efficiently and effectively.

HubSpot combines customer relationship management with other marketing, sales, and customer service tools on a single platform to offer a complete go-to-market solution for growing businesses. HubSpot can be set up to automatically trigger project creation in BigTime at a certain lifecycle stage, saving time spent on data entry. With customer and project information together in the same place, users make smarter decisions and build better relationships.

QuickBooks is an accounting system offering on-premise as well as cloud-based applications geared toward small and medium-sized businesses. The deep integration we've built with QuickBooks allows our customers to have a two-way sync between projects, timesheets, and invoices and service items, pay items, classes, and expense accounts. This streamlined data entry and controlled data exchange improves accuracy and increases alignment across teams.

Sage Intacct is a cloud-based accounting software and financial services provider for growing businesses to improve order efficiency and revenue management. Integrating Sage Intacct with BigTime seamlessly synchronizes your projects, employees, financials, and accounting data for a single view of how your firm is performing. Customers leveraging this connection benefit from standardized workflows and experience faster billing cycles.
