

Implementation Models for Industry Partners

Successful industry partnerships can take many forms. They can include partnerships with local businesses, unions, community or non-government organizations, institutions of higher education, or even local governmental entities. These relationships can fall on a large continuum of involvement or commitment and can extend for a short term (even just a single engagement), can be a long term multi-year partnership, or can include a variety of dynamics in between. Some of these industry partner models include:
