FIRST ROUND DRAFTS

Santa Fe Nut Brown

Santa Fe Nut Brown Ale contains no actual nuts (unlike your dating history). But, this mild, easy - drinking English-style brown does have a slightly sweet, nutty flavor from the malts we use. Will a squirrel try to steal this lightly-hopped, sessionable ale from you? Probably not. But just in case, better hold on to your nuts. 5.2% ABV

Raspberry Dynamite

Our popular house kettle sour is brewed with a wheat heavy grain bill, which we run off and kettle sour before boiling with lactose, a milk sugar. We then add a ridiculous quantity of pure raspberry puree to the fermentation and let it all bubble until the flavors develop and the yeast is finished. The result is a fantastically fruit-forward brew with a raspberry aroma, striking appearance, and a refreshingly sweet/tart finish. We have fun with this one! 5.8% ABV

Santa Fe 7K IPA

When you're as high as we are (elevation 7,198 ft), you have lofty beer-making goals. 7k is a dry, West Coast-ish style IPA with notes of grapefruit, citrus and tropical flavors. The beer is fruity and intense with a clean hop profile and leaner malt base than an IPA like Happy Camper. If you're searching for the next great IPA, just look up. Higher. No, Higher. There we are. 7.0% ABV
