8. Data protection

8.1. KLARA informs the senders with whom the Customer is in contact, and who hold the Customer’s data in their master data, that the Customer would like to receive messages electronically in myLife and that the sender may send messages to them via this channel.

8.2. The Customer agrees to KLARA involving third parties to render services and supplying the necessary data to the third parties involved. The data processor is subject to the same obligations as regards guaranteeing data protection as KLARA itself and – subject to differing legal regulations – may not use or process the data for its own purposes. KLARA undertakes to select, instruct and monitor such service providers in a prudent manner.

8.3. KLARA operates myLife exclusively from data centers located in Switzerland.

8.4. KLARA can make data from myLife available to sender customers who are subject to federal supervision (such as banks) provided that (a) they have a relationship to the mail items of the sender concerned and (b) the data is required by the sender in order to comply with regulatory requirements. The senders to whom this provision applies can be found in E-Post.

8.5. The Customer allows KLARA to provide consignment data to senders. The following information is provided to the respective sender for each mail item: consignment identification, delivery method, processing status, reasons for non-provision in myLife. Confirmation and the timing of mail items being opened by the Customer are not disclosed.

8.6. Files and mail items are semantically analyzed and indexed. The relevant searchable key words obtained in this way are stored in a database. This semantic recognition and indexing forms the basis for the full-text search and any payments (made by the Customer via his/her banking institute) in myLife. Data obtained in this way is used to perform these functions only and is used for no other purpose.

8.7. Log and protocol data is stored up to two years for auditing reasons.
