Tell your customer stories effortlessly

People care about stories, not a list of features and who better to tell them than your own customers? Telling authentic customer stories at scale is challenging, but leveraging speech-to-text will help your marketing team tell unique stories, with ease.

1. Easily grab the voice of the customer

Whether it's a 1:1 Zoom interview, a webinar or a keynote speech, Trint captures what was said

- Transcribe fast! Access your content in less than half the time it took for conversation to happen
- Capture your customers' voice no matter where they are and transcribe in up to 31 languages
- Easily catch what was said with Trint's Zoom integration

2. Take the story further

Make the raw conversation available to team members and your organization

- Content writers can collaborate with account managers on the same transcript
- Highlight and export key moments to other interested internal teams
- Share a public link of the audio and script with the customer for approval

3. Stay organized no matter how many projects are in the air

Customer content is gold dust, make it shareable and reusable

- Search for all the different key moments and pull quotes right out of the transcript
- Share with other content teams to publish on social, on blogs or your website
- Save the repository of your customers' voice for future content needs
