About AME

The Association for Manufacturing Excellence (AME) is the premier organization for the exchange of knowledge in enterprise excellence for manufacturing, health care, the public sector and other industries. Members come together to explore lean thinking and other enterprise improvement methods, exchange best practices and network in order to advance their careers and improve the competitiveness and overall value of their organizations.

Since its creation as a not-for-profit in 1985, AME has grown to represent 4,000 members ranging from executives to senior and middle managers who wish to improve both their organization's and their personal performance.

AME's power is in the mentoring relationships that take place among its members. AME is a forum whereby members can stay current with new and developing management and operational techniques.

AME is run by volunteers from business and academia who relentlessly provide their support and energy and resources from their organizations to help members prosper in today's challenging global marketplace. Learn more at ame.org.
