

Applied Project Management Applied Certificate

Saskatchewan Polytechnic's Applied Project Management Applied Certificate program is a highly interactive, instructor-led online program. Through online modules, discussion, instructor-led assignments, and an industry relevant capstone final project, our highly available instructors guide you through every step of the project management pipeline.

The program is highly practical. You will complete several assignments to apply all of the project management processes using a project that you choose, so not only do you get to use your new skills, you can focus on learning project management rather than trying to learn from an unrelated case study. The courses include many collaborative exercises, so you get the necessary interaction with other students, and you get feedback from experienced professional project management instructors who are available to answer questions and provide guidance.

This program will provide you with an overview of the most useful project management processes and tools based on standard practices of the project management profession. You will learn to adapt different methods to meet your specific and unique needs.

This Applied Certificate is composed of 3 Modules. Upon completion of all three, students will be awarded the full Applied Project Management Applied Certificate.
