National Capital Advises Kiwis on $10 million of Their KiwiSaver Money

National Capital is getting closer to their goal of helping 1 million Kiwis become financially secure. Clive Fernandes, director of National Capital said, "We really feel honoured that so many kiwis have trusted us to advise them on their money. But we realise that there is a lot more work to be done. There are still thousands of kiwis out there who are not optimizing their KiwiSaver accounts because they do not have access to good advice."

National Capital has grown exponentially since its founding day in 2018. Fernandes and his team have persevered at making a breakthrough in the financial advisory market and are now making giant steps towards educating Kiwis on their KiwiSaver.

Their easy to use KiwiSaver HealthCheck is bringing in new clients every day. The efficiency of our team is heavily promoting trust in their reliability. It only takes a few minutes to fill out their HealthCheck. The questions are designed to give them a very good idea of what the customer wants and needs and the amount of risk they are prepared to take with their KiwiSaver money. By the time they talk to the client directly, both sides already have a copy of the advice sheet. National Capital financial advisors can then focus on going through it to make sure the client understands well what is suggested to them. The company is always well prepared to reach the most profitable outcomes for their clients. They keep their finger on the pulse of the economy as they are constantly researching current events and anything else that might affect their clients' suggested schemes. New Zealanders trust National Capital to link them to the best provider with the best scheme to help them reach their retirement goals.

National Capital post blogs and relay relevant news on a regular basis that answer questions their clients and prospective clients may have in a language that is relatable and easy to understand. This is one of the ways they believe sets them apart from other advisory firms. They are bridging the gap between providers and the everyday kiwi as they aim to make a KiwiSaver a common topic of conversation.
