

Centre assessed grading

A new approach

The pandemic has, at least for the near-term, severely impacted the use of many traditional summative examinations. The burden has shifted back to schools and other exam centres to provide graded assessments. The challenge is considerable but RM Compare can help.

Quality assurance

RM Compare can provide a training tool for staff. With it, they can test their own ability to recognise differences in work of varying grades. Crucially it helps them to understand what good looks like.

Grading work

Through a process called seeding, work can be graded in RM Compare. It allows new work to be compared to pre-graded work. In doing so it produces a rank with graded anchor points.

Moderation

RM Compare is built with moderation in mind. It can be used in a single school or across school groups to accurately and efficiently rank student work. It will also help inform on the relative 'fit' of individual assessors.
