RISK AND VULNERABILITY ASSESSMENTS

Preparation begins with understanding the unique vulnerabilities that are present in your particular organization. Whether it's a school, a corporate environment, an industrial space, or a house of worship, the reality is that workplace violence is one of the most common forms of violence that an individual may experience. Conducting a vulnerability assessment allows you to identify security threats and to implement mitigation strategies, security technologies, and policies.

In the event that violence should occur, every employee should be trained, prepared, and informed on the most effective actions they can take to protect their own safety and the safety of those around them. The objective of the ASR Risk and Vulnerability Assessment is to work collaboratively with your organization to develop a practical and integrated Security Assessment that provides a strategy and clear plan of key actions to improve your facility's security potential. Our report delivers a comprehensive physical security presence that is integrated to provide optimal protection.

The ASR objective is to work collaboratively with your company to develop a practical and integrated Strategic Security Checklist that provides a strategy and clear plan of key actions to improve your facility's security capabilities. This delivers a more comprehensive physical security presence that is integrated to provide optimal security.
