Embrace No-Code HR Automation to Support an Agile Workforce

As businesses adopt new ways of working, they need better tools and processes to manage their agile workforce. Whether it's supporting geographically dispersed teams, or securing talent from emerging sources, or reskilling existing employees for the future, technology can play a crucial role in improving HR processes. However, partial automation across disparate tool stacks leads to inefficiencies, duplication, delays, errors, and a poor experience for employees. The over-dependence on IT teams for improving HR tools and automation is also a major concern.

Cut-down Administrative Tasks and Focus on HR Strategy Execution

Klera helps you automate HR processes, including recruitment, applicant tracking, onboarding, performance management, leave management, etc., on a single no-code platform.

End-to-End HR Automation

Recruitment

Automate job requisition, job posting, initial correspondence, shortlisting of resumes, scheduling of interviews, and integrate candidate data from all sources to meet recruitment goals efficiently.

Employee Onboarding

Make positive first impressions for a motivated workforce. Accelerate the onboarding process and deliver a consistent experience to new employees across different cadres while following all policies and compliances.

Performance Management

Ensure continuous performance management with real-time data analytics across various performance metrics, ratings, feedbacks, conversations, and achievements. Leverage data to identify current and future training needs.

Get Started in Minutes

Klera offers out-of-the-box apps for HR automation and also provides a powerful no-code app builder framework, which helps you modify these apps or develop new ones from scratch, within minutes.
