DESCRIPTION

Tahoe OG is the perfect rainy day strain. Strong and fast-acting, you may not want to use this strain when you're planning to leave the house. Great for those suffering from insomnia, pain, or lack of appetite, Tahoe OG has made a name for itself among other indicas. A top night-time strain, it provides an extremely lazy, heavy body sensation. Due to superb breeding, Tahoe OG embodies all of the typical indica effects with an added euphoric, sativa-like kick. This strain features an earthy, lemon taste, and is a phenotype of OG Kush. Maturing at around 10 weeks, Tahoe OG is a must-try for those looking for a great night's sleep.

PARENT #1: OG Kush

Hybrid

Breeder: Unknown/Disputed

Lineage: Chemdog

OG Kush is the backbone of many strains we know and love today. Its genetic origins are quite a mystery and highly debated. There are also a number of different "OG Kush" phenotypes including: Larry, Tahoe, SFV, Ghost, Tripple, Abusive, Private Reserve, Apothecary, Diablo, Raskal, Poison and more. Given its unknown lineage, it hard to pinpoint what would be the "original OG Kush".
