

About Jonathan Lewis

Jonny has had wide and deep experience over the last 15 years delivering a range of workshops designed to increase his participants' self-awareness in a variety of settings. His skills as a professional actor and director inform and enliven what he does: he is passionate about getting people to work beyond their comfort zones and enjoy the experience. And this is how he quickly enables others to bring out the best in themselves.

Skilled at offering techniques and tools that match the needs of his groups, participants often comment on his engaging and warm style and the differences they find after working with him for just one day.

Jonny also continues his work as an actor and director, recently performing a one man show in the West End in London. On the television he is best remembered for his roles in 'London's Burning,' 'Soldier, Soldier' and 'Coronation Street.' He is an award winning playwright and has directed in theaters all over the UK.
