

Marry You Lyrics

When you walk into that room put a smile on face ya you made me feel like I was sixteen again and I don't know how to articulate what I'm hearing inside of me but the Lord said I was gonna marry you but the Lord said I was gonna marry you

Someone to hold my hands laugh with me pick me up when I'm feeling blue and I know it sounds crazy might even be a little cliché but the Lord said I was gonna marry you but the Lord said I was gonna marry you

and in my past I was hurt I didn't think I could love again and who would want me anyway I'm just a throw away and in that place of giving up God did me a favor and this is what he said I was gonna marry you

I counted down the days that the rings would be exchange I finally found my true love when the Lord said I was gonna marry you when the Lord said I was gonna marry you

Our valleys low and high but your love is never faded in a dark and cruel would you bring that light and I remember that day I had them tears in my eyes when I heard you say the words I do when I heard you say the words I do

there a season for everything baby I didn't think my winters were ever gonna end but he the God of second chances all of you that have been done wrong hold on their somebody special for you seek the kingdom of God first and all things will follow I promise you I do

and in my past I was hurt I didn't think I could love again and who would want me anyway I'm just a throw away and in that place of giving up God did me a favor and this is what he said I was gonna marry you
