

CEO Fraud Response Checklist

<ul> <li>I. Contact your bank</li> <li>Give them full details of the amount of wire transfer, the account destination and</li> </ul> other details.
<ul> <li>Recall the transfer if possible.</li> <li>Have them contact the foreign bank to freeze the funds.</li> </ul>
2. Contact your attorneys • Inform them of the facts.
<ul> <li>3. Contact law enforcement         <ul> <li>Identify your incident as "BEC," provide a brief description, provide complete financial information.</li> </ul> </li> </ul>
<ul> <li>4. File a complaint</li> <li>Visit the FBI's Internet Crime Complaint Center (IC3) at www.IC3.gov to file your complaint with full details of the crime.</li> </ul>
<ul> <li>5. Brief the board and senior management</li> <li>Call an emergency meeting to brief the board and senior management on the inciden steps taken and further actions to be carried out.</li> </ul>	ıt,
<ul> <li>6. Conduct IT forensics</li> <li>Have IT investigate the breach to find the attack vector, recover control of hacked en accounts, and find any malware remaining anywhere within the network.</li> </ul>	mail
7. Contact your insurance company • Find out if you are covered for the attack and if they have resources to help resolve it	t.
<ul> <li>8. Bring in outside security specialists</li> <li>Bring in outside help to detect areas of intrusion that IT may have missed. All traces the attack and all traces of malware must be eradicated.</li> </ul>	of
<ul> <li>9. Isolate security policy violations</li> <li>• Investigate violations as well as the possibility of collusion with criminals. Take the appropriate disciplinary action.</li> </ul>
<ul> <li>IO. Draw up a plan to remedy security deficiencies</li> <li>Beef up security technology and procedures.</li> <li>Bolster staff security training, especially security awareness training.</li> </ul>

