10 Signs You Should Break Up With Your 3PL

Is your 3PL leaving you and your customers unfulfilled? Use this checklist to help you determine if it's time to move on and break up with your current 3PL.

- Your customer service is swamped with shipping related support tickets
- You are losing money on returns due to incorrect items
- You are shipping out of only 1 warehouse location
- Your customers are leaving negative reviews due to shipping issues
- You can never get a hold of your 3PL
- Shipping costs are draining your profits
- Storage costs are outrageous
- Delivery times for customer orders are too long
- Order processing is delayed during order volume spikes
- Your 3PL is holding you back from expanding your business
